Vermont Troops on Border to Have New Tents

Lieut. Miner Had Wild Ride To Get Medical Aid—Rookies at Camp Gov. Gates Take Long Hikes.

In spite of the fact that there is not much of real interest taking place in the ranks of Company I or the other companies of the First Vermont regiment either at Eagle Pass, Texas, or at Camp Governor Gates, The Phoenix is able to present two interesting letters, one from each of the camps.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, July 28.
The first death in the 1st Vermont regiment took place in the hospital on July 26, when Eugene Chaffee, cook in Company F, of Northfield, died from burns received three days before. He was burned by the explosion of a can of kerosene which he was using to start a fire in the company range. His clothes caught fire and he ran some distance before comrades stopped him and wrapped him in clothing to smother the flames. Chaffee was about 25 years of age. He leaves in Northfield a widowed mother and three brothers.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, July 24.
The 1st Vermont is the luckiest regiment on the border, for several reasons. One is that we have two of Vermont's best men with us in the persons of Col. Reeves and Chaplain Thomas, our commander of the regiment and president of Middlebury college. War or even the conditions we are under here is man's game, and in this sort of men no state can do better. The colonel is a very capable military man, very quiet and reserved, to outward appearances, but with excellent control and every day the men are backing him fully. Chaplain Thomas is one of the old Yankee type, who has given up life in the Green mountains and come down here to cheer up the men. He is a fine entertainer and mixes with the boys. One of his best friends is the missionary organ that we received from Brattleboro. He has access to it any time.

We have a most sanitary camp. Everyone seems to realize just what it means if he is not careful. Disease is our worst enemy, in fact so far as I can see and hear it is worse than the Mexicans. The intense heat we have helps germinate and spread disease, so the best way is not to let it start. All sickness thus far, except two or three cases, has been caused by heat and is nothing serious. After a man gets back from a hard drill sometimes he "goes under," but with a day or two of rest he is all right again. I think our regiment has the lowest sick list.

High officials have commended this regiment on its personnel. One would think now that we were natives to see us work around all through the day. We have had typhoid and small pox inoculation and are immune. "Kick ers," so we get along finely. Many a Vermont housewife would look at our kitchen and mess tent with a jealous eye.

Welcome Breeze from Gulf.

Our camp is situated in what was a mesquite brush field near the railroad and just at the outskirts of Eagle Pass. The ground slopes gently to the east. Just west is the Rio Grande, about half a mile. North of us—well it's Texas, that's all. There is quite a steady breeze from the southwest, evidently from the Gulf, and that is a welcome feature.

Our food is excellent. Cooks Gonyer, Lee and Heap deserve all credit for the way they are preparing the mess for 90 men—we have 15 men detailed from Company D to feed. The commissary department has not been so efficient as now for years. The mess sergeants can draw all they want and more. We have steak, potatoes, tomatoes, beans, hash, prunes, oranges, coffee, tea, lemonade, ice water, besides fancy dishes of macaroni, stews, ices and bread pudding, etc.

The tentage was condemned many years ago, but we had to put up with it. We drew one of the new type pyramidal wall tents, and more are on the way here to equip us complete. This new tent is more roomy—and more nearly water proof than the old ones. There are so many poisonous insects and animals on the ground that our cats are very welcome. A soldier has all the clothes he needs, a good outdoor place to sleep, plenty to eat and, if taken sick, doctor's care. He has work enough for exercise, but is not driven to death.

We have had many comforts from the good people of Brattleboro. The pay of a soldier is small, though plenty for himself. Uncle Sam hires his soldiers, but cannot hire his family, so with all consideration and thanks, my part and many others in the company, I think the people at home would do well to consider what we have and look to the families at home dependent on the boys here who don't get actual cash enough to pay the board bills of their wives, to say nothing of a family of youngsters. I am sure such action would be appreciated by the majority of the men here.

Yesterday I rode out to gather some

Relief in Pulmonary Or Throat Troubles

depends largely on the sufferer's ability to rebuild a weakened system, and thus hasten a return of normal body functions.

In this effort much depends on fresh air—night and day—and rest and good food. The patient should refrain from work that overtaxes, and all sanitary precautions should be taken. These commonsense measures do not always achieve the desired results unless aided by proper medication.

It is here that Eckman's Alternative has evidenced its worth, for in many cases it has effected lasting benefit. And often such troubles seem to yield to it.

In no case is its use attended with possible harm, since it contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs. At your druggist's.

souvenirs to send home and through the kindness of Major Ashley of our battalion I took his horse. I got general directions of the way to Elm Creek bridge, where Company D, 1st Vermont, is on outpost. It is seven miles out. On the way I saw several things I planned to get on the way back. I followed the road for three miles. Then for about four miles was a trail through the mesquite plains. It was country exactly like you see in the movies of a wild west scene—cactus, small palms, and jackrabbits. I finally arrived at the bridge and paid Lieut. Hartwell a visit.

I stayed to dinner and looked the place over and was about to start back, when the first sergeant came up and said a man was very sick, and his throat was swelling rapidly and that he could hardly breathe, besides having a chill. Well, I made a wild ride for the camp hospital in the intense heat. The doctor went out in a machine and brought the man back. He had acute tonsillitis. Not having ridden a horse since I was a youngster you can imagine my condition today after that ride, as it was a case of gallop most of the way.

We had a call from a member of the staff of General Funston today. It is expected that the general will make a personal visit for inspection, so no one is allowed out of camp today.

LIEUT. ROY B. MINER,
Company I, 1st Vt. Inf.

Harry Smith of Company I, writing to his family from Eagle Pass, Texas, last Sunday tells of two of the company while returning from a swim, having captured a snake that measured four feet and three inches in length. Basking snakes are held every Saturday night, but the young man wrote that he had declined an offer to meet a member of Company H in the ring, although every man who takes part in a scrap is given $5. He expresses the wish that they were coming home now as there is nothing to do down there and no one expects that there will be anything but monotonous guard duty.

CAMP GOV. GATES, Aug. 1.
Ninety-two rookies of the regular army arrived Wednesday afternoon at the post, coming from Fort Slocum, where they had been stationed 33 days. They will stay here 10 days for drill and instructions, then they expect to go to the fort at Plattsburg to be transferred to different companies.

Thirty-three of the unassigned cavalry were transferred to the infantry Thursday. This about completes the transferring of the cavalry to the infantry, except that they are not equipped as yet. The machine gun troop, with top Sergeant Marshall in charge, is out drilling about every day. Next week they expect to have target practice on the range.

Major Batchelder was a visitor in camp Thursday for a few minutes, wearing citizen clothes. A week or so ago, when they first were talking about transferring the cavalry, the major made a speech to the Norwich boys, in which he stated that he would be only too glad to serve as a private under a Redcoat. The humor is practicing in the V. M. C. A. and the noise drives all thoughts from my brain.

We had fine weather up to Sunday night, when we had a severe electrical storm, lasting over an hour. Yesterday was very hot and windy, although a slight wind was blowing.

The excursion brought us a few visitors, among them being Mr. and Mrs. John I. Lane of 11 Northern avenue, who have three sons in camp. Charles Aher and Thomas Austin visited the boys. Mr. Thompson stopped to see his son, George.

The 1st Infantry band gave a concert on the grounds Sunday afternoon, which drew a good number of visitors from Burlington and Winoski.

Summer clothes are to be issued to the "rookies" at the post before they leave for Plattsburg as they are still wearing winter uniforms of wool overcoat and cloth.

The infantry boys are getting enough hiking. Friday and Saturday they hiked about 10 miles each day with a sham battle and skirmish drill before returning. Yesterday they went on a 15-mile hike and had a sham battle, using blank cartridges. They certainly are a tired bunch when they return to camp for the noon mess.

We are being fed with the best of food and there is no complaining from anybody. There is much discussion as to when we leave, and a few of the boys are getting discouraged, as it does begin to look as though we were going to stay here. All we want is the chance to see the boys, or have them move us to some other place, anything except staying in this camp.

Privates Frank Lynch and Henry Moore, waiters at the officers' mess, were on a 36-hour furlough which they spent in Brattleboro. They reported for duty yesterday.

We expect to get our July pay this week, which doesn't seem as a bit, as we are all pretty nearly busted. Thomas Manning of Springfield, Mass., formerly of Brattleboro, who passed the examination O. K. and by mistake was given his discharge, has been called back.

The boys in the band were somewhat peeved when they saw the paper comparing them with a circus band, but there's nothing like telling the truth.

STAFFORD TO HEAR CASE.

Rutland Man Appointed Auditor in Suit of Judge Waterman Against Judge Martin Estate.

The judges of the Windham county court have appointed B. L. Stafford of Rutland auditor to hear and report on the suit of Judge E. L. Waterman against the estate of the late Judge J. L. Martin. N. D. Clawson is appointed stenographer. The hearing is to be continued after once being started and the report is to be filed before Sept. 1.

The suit is for an accounting of the partnership accounts, which were never balanced during the existence of the law partnership of Judge Waterman and Judge Martin.

DEVELOPING WATER POWER.

Harnessing of Streams in Vermont Neglected Until Recently—2,000-Horse Power Available.

An interesting story on the development of the water powers of Vermont is told in the last issue of the United States Investor, a periodical devoted to financial news. The article is as follows:

"It is a fact that the development of water power in the state of Vermont, under the modern methods of high tension transmission has been neglected to a greater extent than in any of the other New England states and that it is only recently important steps have been taken to remedy this.

"It is well known, also, that the state of Vermont is peculiarly favored by nature with an abundance of natural water powers, and yet it is only within a comparatively recent date that the attention of capital has been directed toward it.

"It is interesting to learn that five New England states have 36 per cent of the water-developed manufacturing power, while New York state has 30 per cent, or nearly two-thirds of the water-developed manufacturing power in the country.

"An expert in water power matters has stated that Vermont has the possibilities of developing 2,000,000-horse power, or the power which can be generated by 10,000,000 tons of coal annually. What the development of this vast amount of power will mean to Vermont is almost beyond belief.

"Few states of the Union compare with Vermont in respect to the number of rivers and streams flowing from the summits of the Green Mountains, and it is doubtful if any area in the country has less than the 10,000 square miles, is so well watered as this state, and which is one of the two states in the Union in which water generates more power than steam.

"On account of this neglect of the development of cheap power, Vermont is further behind the more developed states of New England in manufacturing, but the time is near at hand when this situation promises to be reversed, to some extent at least, for during the past two years considerable progress has been made by outside capital to take advantage of the splendid opportunities which the state affords for the acquisition of its natural resources for the creation of electric energy.

"One of the foremost developments at the present time is that which is being undertaken by the Eastern Vermont Public Utilities Corporation, and its subsidiary, the Eastern Vermont Public Utilities Corporation. In our issue of March 11, 1916, we referred to the undertaking in which the Hortonville Power company is engaged, and it was about this time that the Eastern Vermont Public Utilities corporation was organized under the laws of Vermont with the object of taking over certain hydro-electric power plants and further developing and improving them. This company has taken over the hydro-electric property of the Juddville Electric Light and Power company, which supplies several towns in its immediate locality; the Groton Electric Light and Power company and the Ryegate Light and Power company.

"These plants are to be further improved and developed and are just being united. Developments of other hydro-electric properties are to be made at Danville, Vermont, and vicinity, with the construction of two power stations.

"The Eastern Vermont Public Utilities corporation's main transmission line connecting Danville, Ryegate and Bethel is to be constructed this summer, and we are informed, the company is ready to have applications for larger amounts of power than it is able to supply from individual consumers and the large quarrying section which it enters. This company will supply the Woodbury Granite company and other large quarrying operations. It has already secured contracts for lighting in numerous towns in the state. All franchises on which it operates are perpetual.

"This company was organized by F. M. Dyer & company, of New York, who also organized the Hortonville Power company, which is making splendid progress in the development of electric energy in the central and western part of the state connecting up the magnetite iron fields on Lake Champlain with the great slate, marble and granite quarries, basins and tale belts of central and western Vermont. This company owns five hydro-electric plants and several steam generating plants, also, in fee, and by option, undeveloped water power to the amount of 11,758-horse power.

"As Vermont's industrial future is closely allied with the development of her water power resources, these enterprises ought to be of much assistance in attracting new industrial enterprises that will assist in making Vermont one of the greatest industrial communities of New England. Opportunities will be afforded for the establishment of many mills and factories.

"With the development of Vermont water power on a large scale and the production of electricity at comparatively small cost, it will be possible for thousands of farmers of Vermont to light their homes and barns by electricity and use electric power for the operation of farm machinery and for domestic purposes. The possibilities of industrial development are equally as great and the time promises to be not far distant when the state will be something beside a summer tourist region and agricultural section."

BARBER SEEKS REELECTION.
Attorney General Will File Petitions with Secretary of State—Predecessors Served Two Terms.

Attorney General Herbert G. Barber finished Wednesday the work of securing signatures to 500 individual petitions for his reelection to the office of attorney general. They will be filed at once with the secretary of state. Five hundred signatures were necessary in order to get the name on the official ballots.

Mr. Barber says frankly that he is a candidate for reelection not because his friends have urged him to be but because he wishes to serve another term. All his predecessors in the office have served two terms. Mr. Barber says that if he is re-elected he will not again be a candidate under any circumstances.

The Bravest Battle.

The bravest battle that ever was fought!
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you will find it not;
'Twas fought by the mothers of men.

Nay, not with cannon or battle-shot,
With a sword or noble pen;
Nay, not with eloquent words or thought
From mouths of wonderful men!

But deep in a walled-up woman's heart—
Of a woman that would not yield,
But bravely, silently bore her part—
Lo, there is that battlefield!

No marshalling troops, no bivouac song,
No battle to gleam and wave;
But oh, these battles, they last so long—
From babyhood to the grave.

Yet, faithful still as a bridge of stars,
She fights in her walled-up town—
Fights on and on in the endless wars;
Then silent, unseen, goes down.

Oh, ye with banners and battle-shot,
And soldiers to shout and praise!
I tell you the kindest victories
Were fought in those silent ways.

O spotless woman in a world of shame,
With splendid and silent scorn,
Go back to God as white as you came,
The kindest warrior born!

Dig In.

Dig right in and do your bit,
Take your dose of work and grin,
Put your soul right into it,
That's the only way to win;
Don't sit down and loudly wail;
Just because your task is tough;
That's the surest way to fail,
Tackle it and show your stuff.

Each man living meets his test,
Hard jobs come to one and all,
Dig right in and do your best;
Shirk it and you're sure to fall.
When you're up against a job,
That's distasteful, dig right in,
Don't take time to sigh or sob;
Do it, and you're bound to win.
